

The Problem

Diagnostic certainty accumulates one visit at a time — the subtype stays provisional for over a year

A third to half of patients are reclassified within 1-2 years, so even the confirmed label is unstable.

Through all of it, a fast-declining PIGD patient looks like a milder TD case.